UNM Bookstore Store/In-Person Visit Advisory

Per various University directives, classes will resume on an online basis on March 23. In an effort to support the University of New Mexico's academic mission and ensure students and faculty have access to necessary course materials, the UNM Bookstore has made the decision to open the store to the UNM community on Monday, March 23 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Please note, Medical Legal Bookstore on north campus is closed until further notice.

All Bookstore departments will be open during this time. Course materials for 2nd 8 week courses will be available for purchase in our textbooks department on the second floor. The Bookstore TechDen will also be open during this time as we understand new class or work arrangements may require unforeseen technology needs. We are an Apple certified reseller and carry top-brand computers and tablets and accessories from Microsoft, Dell and HP.

The Bookstore is taking various measures to ensure that students and faculty who visit our store during this time may do so confidently. In this spirit, we have set forth the following guidelines and recommendations:

- Bring your Lobo ID for all purchases and in-store pickup orders as UNM ID holders will be allowed into the store due to the current environment
- In-store pickups will be made through a window in the store lobby not on the store's second floor as previously conducted
- Keep a safe distance from others when shopping or standing in line

Alternatively, we encourage you to order course materials and merchandise online at bookstore.unm.edu when possible and have it delivered to your residence. Online orders are being processed daily and shipping continues as usual.

Thank you for your support and flexibility as we continue to adapt to the changing environment. Please continue to check our website, bookstore.unm.edu for the latest store hours and service updates as these are subject to change.

Sincerely,

UNM Bookstores Management
